Important: You must book your ferries in the order that you will use them! If you book out of order, your Pass will not be valid from your starting location. For example, you book your first ferry for the 10th of August, this date will be the activation date of your Pass. The next ferry you book can only be after this date, for example on the 13th of August, not on the 8th of August.

For example, you book your first ferry for the 10th of August, this date will be the activation date of your Pass. The next ferry you book can only be after this date, for example on the 13th of August, not on the 8th of August.

Starting in Patras, take the bus to Kiato, and from there take the train towards Piraeus. This trip can be made at any time. It is not necessary to fill in a separate trip on your Travel Calendar.

Practical Information

How to Use the Greek Islands Pass

Before you embark the ferry, it is extremely important to write the travel date in the Travel Calendar on your Pass. Your Pass is not valid for travel on days that are not marked on your Travel Calendar.

How to Fill in the Travel Calendar

The Travel Calendar will have a day and a month box for each of the days you are entitled to. The day and month should be written in the proper boxes under '1' for the first ferry day, '2' for the second ferry day, and so on. This should not be done with a pencil, but with blue or black ink.

There is no limit on the amount of times the discount can be used.

Mistake in the Travel Calendar

You are advised to fill out the Travel Calendar with care. Mistakes cannot be corrected, since an altered travel date can be interpreted as attempted fraud. When a mistake is made in the Travel Calendar, it can only be corrected by entering the desired date in the next box. This means that you lose one travel day.

Do's and don'ts for the Travel Calendar:

- Only use a pen with black or blue ink (non-erasable)
- Do not use a pencil
- Fill in the date before you start the trip
- Enter two digits per day/month (see example on the previous page)
